SAYS FRENCH JESUIT

J. Cornely Discusses the Effect of the Association's Bill on the Religious Societies.

WILL BE AN ISSUE NEXT YEAR.

He Predicts That It Will Play a Prominent Part in the Coming General Election.

SPECIAL BY CABLE.

Paris, April 6 .- (Copyright, 1901, by the New York Herald Company.)-There is one strike which all Frenchmen agree in considering a public benefit. It is that of the Chambers.

This is why their recess is always saluted with joy, even in the newspaper offices. Besides, the Chamber of Deputies in particular was really very fatigued, and six weeks of rest was not too much after the strain it had undergone in voting the associations bill. I will summarize in a few lines this bill, the debate on which has lasted three months, and which was adopted by a majority of eighty on the final vote. In future in France the people can create associations without authorization and without declaration, except in the case of religious associations of which the members Twe together. Existing religious associations are divided into two categories:

The Two Categories. First, authorized religious associations, which remain what they were before the bill. They continue to subsist. They include at the present moment 70,000 members, and they possess 600,000,000 francs ($12),-000,00) worth of property.

Second, associations which are not authorized and must demand authorization from Parliament. If they do not ask it, or it they do not obtain it, they must disperse their members and will be forbidden to teach; their property will be sold and the proceeds will be handed to those who have a right to it.

Such is the bill. It will be voted by the Senate toward the end of July. From this date the delay accorded to the congregations to demand authorization will begin to run, and it is unlikely that the Chambers will be able to debate the demands for authorization before the end of the legislature. The result will be that this question will be the platform of the general election

We do not know what will be the attitude of unauthorized congregations, such as the Jesuits and Dominicans, and the contemplative order for women, in regard to

Public opinion was somewhat moved this week on learning that the Prime Minister had been eattacked by an affection which had necessitated the intervention of a surgeon, as a result of an attack of influenza. M. Waldeck-Rousseau had an abcess in the mouth, accompanied by oedema, which caused some anxiety, To-day he is much better, and all danger is at an end.

The President of the Republic will thus be able, without anxiety, to preside at the fetes at Toulon, and at the demonstrations of friendship between the French and Italian squadrons. REPUBLIC SPECIAL.

Springfield, Iil., April 6.—After a suspension lasting one week, the operators and miners of the Springfield subdistrict effected a settlement Saturday night and work will be resumed Monday morning. A compromise is the outcome of the contention, both parties making concessions from their original stands.

Under the terms of the agreement, the operators will increase drivers' wages from $2.10 to $12.25 for an eight-hour work-day and all other inside laborers will receive an increase of 5 cents a day. In addition, the operators agree to extend the workings of the miners so that each man shall have a separate room and the rule of firing only once a day will be observed.

In lieu of these concessions, the miners withdrew their demand for free cotton and oil. The operators will reduce the price of oil from $5$ cents to $5$ cents a gallon, and a better grade will be furnished.

No advance is given the outside day laborers and it is not unlikely that these employes will make a demand for a proportionate increase.

the Jesuits and Dominicans, and the contemplative order for women, in regard to the law. In 1870 these orders refused to take any steps to obtain authorization. As to the Jesuits, it is almost certain that they will not ask for authorization. They will disperse, will secularize themseives and will remain in their schools as simple priests.

Palmer has also agreed to pay 250 towards paying the expense incurred by the committee while prosecuting the case.

AFTER MRS. CARTER.

Effort to Collect From the Actress Is a Failure.

Omaha, Neb., April 6.—Sheriff Power Saturday attempted to levy on the wardrobe and jewels of Mrs. Lesile Carter to satisfy a judgment held against her by Doctor Clarke Capen, formerly of Omaha, but now a resident of Chicago, for services rendered a resident of Chicago, for services rendered in a medico-legal capacity during a divorce suit some years ago. The judgment, with interest, is now said to amount to $1,500.

Mrs. Carter's manager insisted that she is the possessor of no property, and that the wardrobe and jewels she wears are owned by Charles Frohman of New York. Previous attempts have been made to collect the judgment during Mrs. Carter's Omaha engagements.
